PARISH LIFE

And I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between thy seed and her seed; they shall bruise thy head and you shall bruise him on the heel.

Genesis 3:15

According to chapter 19 of Matthew, when Christ referred to the "beginning," by this expression he did not indicate merely the state of original innocence as the lost horizon of human existence in human history. To the words which he uttered with his own lips, we have the right to attribute at the same time the whole eloquence of the mystery of redemption. Already in the Yawist texts of Genesis 2 and 3, we are witnesses of when man, male and female, after breaking the original covenant with the Creator, received the first promise of redemption in the words of the so called Proto-gospel* in Genesis 3:15 and began to live in the theological perspective of the redemption.

In the same way, therefore, historical man—both Christ's questioner at that time, of whom Matthew 19 speaks, and modern man—participates in this perspective. He participates not only in the history of human sinfulness, as a hereditary and at the same time personal and unique subject of this history; he also participates in the history of salvation, here, too, as its subject and co-creator. Therefore, he is not only closed, because of his sinfulness, with regard to original innocence, but is at the same time open to the mystery of redemption, which was accomplished in Christ and through Christ. Paul, the author of the Letter to the Romans, expresses this perspective of redemption in which historical man lives, when he writes: "We ourselves, who have the first fruits of the Spirit, groan inwardly as we wait for... the redemption of our bodies" (Rom 8:23). We cannot lose sight of this perspective as we follow the words of Christ, who, in his talk on the indissolubility of marriage, appealed to the "beginning." * Proto Gospel in Genesis 3:15 is prophetic nature. There will be a Redeemer in the future, one who will crush the head of the serpent (Satan). This fact was accomplished when the Virgin Mary gave birth to God's Son, Jesus. So, our Lord's promise of complete forgiveness is both a reminder and a call. It is a reminder that He is truly present and truly alive in the Eucharist, filled with love for us and waiting for us to turn to Him with trust. And it is a call for us all to be washed clean in His Love through Confession and Holy Communion - no matter how terrible our sins - and begin our lives again. He is offering us a new start.

TODAY'S SCRIPTURES

EASTER SUNDAY OF THE RESURRECTION OF THE LORD

First Reading: Acts 10:34a, 37-43

Second Reading: Colossians 3:1-4 or
1 Corinthians 5:6b-8

Gospel: John 20:1-9 or Mark 16:1-7 (41)

It all comes down to this. Jesus being raised from the dead gives purpose to his cross and ours. Without the Resurrection, all suffering is absurd, death is the end and we are lost.

NEXT WEEK'S SCRIPTURES

SUNDAY OF DIVINE MERCY

First Reading: Acts 4:32-35

Second Reading: 1 John 5:1-6

Gospel: John 20:19-31

+VOCATION VIEW+

The Lord will come when we least expect him. Is he knocking now, asking us to serve as a priest or religious? (Luke 12:49-53)

CONNECT. EDUCATE. INSPIRE.

"He went about doing good and healing all those oppressed by the devil, for God was with him." Acts 10:38

An astute observer once defined stewardship as "preaching by example." Christ's good works, his example, remain his most eloquent preaching. The same is true for us.
